

One day the most unbelievable thing happened the monster of Fearless came to devour everyone in the Saxon village. Slowly Fearless slithered through the green, yellowy marshland losing strength with every rock. Finally he got out and his long, scaly, green tail was seen and his huge biceps on top of his grey arm. He also had a green coat of skin that started peeling off when he was five. His head was like a garbage can with googly eyes and a mouth made out of plastic straws. His nose like a clock because it snores every night every day. So he is the greatest monster ever known who lives underneath the soggy marshland.
